

Wakefield Nine Has Vigorous Workout

Wakefield's baseball squad apparently shook off their lethargy yesterday afternoon and worked out with the type of enthusiasm befitting a team opening up a rough schedule in two weeks.

Henry Mayo continued his campaign for a starting berth in right field by rapping out several hits in last night's practice while Ken Darling showed an encouraging amount of plate potency.

While the Warriors were preparing themselves for the long haul ahead, work progressed on the new baseball diamond which the Wakefield boys will call home.

Construction on the spectator bleachers is well under way. The framework for the stands is fast taking shape while the rolling and scraping of the infield is to take place shortly.

A fence around the outfield is supposed to rise in the near future and the backstop is to be set up soon.
